THE FARM AS AN IDEA: PLACE AND TRADITION

The farm has been a place of interest to extended family of every generation. Laura and Ben are the fifth generation of our family to sit on the porch and swat the flies. Every age has had its place and role. The large house and available space still allows extended family to gather and maintain a network. The stability and continuity of the farm have permitted each to vary his comfortable distance over the years.

Ray Breinig at Mom's birthday party.
He worked for Dad since the 1940's and his hands worked our fields, built our homes, and built the industrial park at Covendale.
